It's All Very, Very Confusing --

This Trying to Locate Service Men Now That the Fighting is Over

NEWS releases from army public relations offices used to bear the following caution: "Editors are reminded that any man mentioned in this story may have become a casualty between the time the story was written and the editor receives it." In a paraphrase, the editor of The Ohio Alumnus would like to remind his readers that any man mentioned in service stories from now on may have become a civilian between the time, etc., etc. In trying to ascertain the "overseas" location of an Ohioan the other day the editor learned that the young fellow was at that moment attending a class in Wilson Hall, the building in which the Alumni Office is located.

Definite—too definite—however, is the word concerning First Lieut. Daniel M. Varalli, '41, Lyons, N. Y., and Staff Sgt. Carroll Whitaker, '44x, Middletown.

Lieutenant Varalli, of the Seventh Army's 15th Infantry, died March 30, 1945, in Schmactenberg, Germany, as a result of injuries incurred in a vehicle accident.

Sergeant Whitaker, a waist gunner on a B-17 with the 15th Air Force in Italy, has been "missing" since Feb. 16, 1945, but is presumed to be dead.

His plane collided with another in a cloud over the Adriatic Sea. None of the crew of either plane has been found.

In command of a flight of six Grumman Hellcats and over his target in the Japanese homeland on August 14, the closing day of the war in the Pacific, Lieut. Howard M. Harrison, '43x, Columbus, a Navy pilot, received orders from his carrier to return. Just as the six planes were in the act of obeying the order, however, they were attacked by 20 Japanese fighter planes which shot down four of the Hellcats, including the one piloted by Harrison. No trace of the Ohioan or his plane has since been reported. Three weeks before, Lieutenant Harrison had been forced to bail out of his plane as it crashed into the sea off the coast of Honshu. On that occasion he was in the water seven hours before he was saved by a PBM flying boat sent out to search for him after two squadron mates, who saw him crash, persuaded their commanding officer to let them lead a rescue mission. The missing Ohioan participated in nearly all of the major engagements in the south and central Pacific. He is the husband of the former Ruth Gillespie, '40, who is now at her home in Sutton, W. Va., with their two children, Ronnie 2, and Beth, 8 months of age.

Missing without a trace is the present status of Staff Sgt. Henry W. Jones, '46x, Jackson, who, with his bomber crew, left the home base on Tinian Island May 24, 1945, for a night mission over Tokyo. It is presumed that the plane went down over the target. It is possible that the fliers bailed out and were taken prisoners, but, if so, they are yet unaccounted for.

A prisoner of the Germans in Stalag Luft No. 1 in North Germany near the Baltic Sea, Second Lieut. David Davis, '44x (see picture), Cincinnati, a 15th Air Force navigator, was among the last of the Americans to gain freedom in the European Theater, liberation coming at the hands of the Russians. He was shot down near Vienna, Dec. 11, 1944. Now out of uniform he is a salesman for the Carey Manufacturing Co. On July 22, 1945, he married Minerva Cohen, a resident of Cincinnati and a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.

Corp. Roland S. Bauer, '45x, Cuyahoga Falls, one-time prisoner of war in Germany, is now doing personnel work at the Convalescent Hospital, Lieut. David Davis, U.S.A.

Camp Edwards, Mass. Corporal Bauer was one of a group of Americans whose release from the prison camp was effected in November, 1944, by a Red Cross representative who parleyed for hours with four high-ranking German officers at Nazi headquarters in St. Nazaire, France. The bargain was finally sealed over glasses of brandy.

Pfc. William D. White, '46x, Athens, has just completed a 60-day furlough with home folks and is now awaiting reassignment at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Bill knows what a German prison camp looks like from the inside, having been taken prisoner by the Heines on Dec. 16, 1944, while serving with the 99th Infantry in Belgium. Private White is the son of G. E. White, '21x, and Mrs. White (Modelle Rice, '25x); a brother of Annabelle White, Ohio University junior; and the husband of Irene White White, a former Ohio U. student.

From staff sergeant, Albert L. Lloyd, '42, Youngstown, received a battlefield promotion to second lieutenant while fighting with the 80th Division in the European Theatre. He was wounded near Metz just a year ago and after hospitalization in England was returned to the U.S., where for several months he was a patient at Gardiner General Hospital, Chicago. In discussing his service mishap, "Al" said, "A Jerry sighted in on my leg and let one fly. I'm very thankful that he shot low. Too many others weren't nearly so fortunate." On August 18, Lieutenant Lloyd married Annabelle L. Weymueller, '42, formerly of Glouster, a classmate and an Ohio University Phi Beta. The bride was a personnel counsellor for the Western Electric Company in Newark, N. J.

Another Ohioan who fell victim to the marksmanship of a German sniper was Tech. Sgt. John M. Nolan, '45x, Bowerston. John caught one in the back. The spent bullet was found between his knapsack and his field jacket. The experience cost Sergeant Nolan many weeks in a hospital in France.

Capt. Alfred R. Cocomelli, '44x (see picture on page 2), Steubenville, was in charge of a photo interpreting team attached to the 25th Infantry in the Philippines. His regiment broke all records—135 days for continuous fighting without a rest period. Early in the Luzon campaign Captain Cocomelli commanded a group of Philippine Scouts, some of them veterans of the Bataan "Death March," who aided in locating enemy positions and troop concentrations. A well-known dance band leader while on the campus, he played his last engagement at the 1942 Miami University homecoming dance after he had donned khaki.

Flight Officer Harley B. Pickett, Jr., '34, Carpenter, is flying the Air Transport Command's giant C-47's in the Southwest Pacific, being stationed at Finschhaven, New Guinea. He has covered thousands of miles in the Pacific area, making 1800 miles in one day recently. He reports that he has seen WAC Pfc. Betty Kay

ATTENTION, NORTHERN OHIO!

If you are an alumnus in the Cleveland or Akron areas, give heed!

A joint dinner-meeting of the Bobcat Club (men) and the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland will be held at Brown's Cottage Restaurant, 1706 Euclid Ave., Cleveland, at 6:15 P.M., October 18. Speaker: Ohio University's new president, Dr. John C. Baker. For reservations, telephone C. F. Sharp, Main 3111 or WOodbine 2375; or Mrs. D. E. Kimmel, Ivanhoe 7001.

A Fall Dance for ALL Ohioans will be sponsored by the Akron Bobcat Club, October 13, at the Turner Club in Akron. The affair will be semi-formal, with one of the city's leading bands furnishing the music. The committee has been working on plans for weeks. It ought to be a dandy. For reservations, telephone E. Z. Drummond, University 5101; or Dean F. Chatlain, Blackstone 9103 or WAlbridge 0241.

The October luncheon meeting of the Akron Association of Ohio University Women will be held at 1:00 P.M., October 27, at the Women's City Club. Secretary: Mrs. J. R. Wead; telephone FRanklin 6629.

Story, '42, Pomeroy, who is stationed at Ora Bay, only about 180 miles from him. Flight Officer Pickett is a brother of Mrs. Lee Stewart Roach (Gwendolyn Pickett, '30).

With more than 70 combat missions over Normandy, Belgium, and Holland and with at least five enemy planes, probably a sixth, to his credit, First Lieut. Edwin D. Reinhardt, '43x (see picture), Brecksville, pilot of a P-47 fighter plane, the "O. U. Kid," was sent back to the States last December for recuperation from wounds and for reassignment. Now out of the Army, he has re-enrolled at Ohio University. His DFC and Air Medal have numerous Oak Leaf clusters attached. The picture was taken during his stay at the AAF Convalescent Hospital at Miami Beach, Fla.

Described at one time as probably the most decorated man of his regiment, Capt. Robert J. Cook, '43 (see picture), Wells-ville, N. Y., could point to the following as support for the writer's claims: A Silver Star for gallantry in action at Hoven, Germany, with Oak Leaf clusters for gallantry at Ammonines, Belgium, and Paderborn, Germany; a Bronze Star, with one cluster, for other battle actions; a Presidential Unit Citation ribbon; and a Purple Heart, with two clusters, for wounds. Captain Cook commanded a company of the 36th Armored Infantry in the Battle of the Bulge. In the picture, he is to be seen receiving a decoration from his division commander Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose just about two weeks before the latter was killed.

The home fires look good to C. R. "Dick" Estle, '42, New Albany, who received a medical discharge during the past summer. On New Year's Eve, 1944, the former "G.I." was laying mine fields with the 15th Combat Engineers to halt the German advance during the Battle of the Bulge when one of his buddies set off a flare. Immediately an enemy mortar cut loose and dropped a shell smack on a truck load of mines. The result—for Private Estle—was a brain concussion and a burst ear drum. Says he, in not too gloomy retrospect, "Quite a New Year's celebration." Dick is now at Reynoldsburg, where he was a teacher at the time of entering service. He is married and the father of an eight-year-old son, Marvin.

Currently undergoing treatment at Thayer General Hospital, Nashville, Tenn., is First Lieut. William

General Rose and Capt. Robert J. Cook

H. Allen, Jr., '41x, Athens, a veteran of actions on Saipan and Okinawa as a member of the 27th Infantry Division. On Okinawa his left leg was shattered and he subsequently spent time in base hospitals on Guam and at Hickam Field, Hawaii, before being invalided to the States. Besides the Purple Heart, Bill is entitled to wear a Silver Star and a Bronze Star with cluster. He is one of those fellows who could talk plenty—but won't. He is a brother of Mary Watts Allen, '44, an accountant with the Clinton Engineering Works, Oak Ridge, Tenn., which, "now that it can be told" and as all readers know, was engaged in the production of the deadly ingredients of the atomic bomb. Wedding bells, so 'tis said, will be sounding soon for Lieutenant Allen. The bride-to-be: Bernadine L. Sewell, '43, Athens, a recent graduate student at the University of Michigan and a Phi Beta Kappa gal.

Second Lieut. Patricia Nichols, '44 (see picture), Cleveland, is on duty in the Physiotherapy Clinic at Deshong General Hospital, Butler, Pa. Before receiving her commission in the Army Medical Corps last July, Lieutenant Nichols served a three-months' apprenticeship in physiotherapy at Lovell General Hospital, Fort Devens, Mass. Still earlier she had served at Brooke General Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Mass.

Dorothy C. Reece, M.S. '40 (see picture), Terre Haute, Ind., a former graduate student dean at Ohio University and a worker analyst for the U. S. Manpower Commission in Indianapolis prior to "signing up," was a staff assistant with the Clubmobile Division of the American Red Cross in England. The past tense of the verb is used because Miss Reece is probably back in the States by this time.

In a letter to his parents dated June 20, 1945, Capt. Ralph C. Frey, '39, Cleveland, of the 8th Marines, reported that he was writing from a regimental O.P. (observation post) on Okinawa "exactly 25 yards from where Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner was killed . . . The general was sitting between two large rocks and a shell landed right on top of one of them . . . I had occasion to explain the tactical situation to Gen. Roy Geiger, who asked how things were up at the O.P. I told him they were receiving sniper and artillery fire and he said, 'That's enough for me; I'm not going up there yet.' A few hours later General Buckner was killed there." Captain Frey, who survived critical wounds received on Guadalcanal, was due to arrive in the States on September 30.

Among the many service men to visit the campus and local friends during recent weeks was Major Richard E. Cole, '41x, Dayton, co-pilot with General Jimmie Doolittle on the famous Tokyo raid of April 18, 1942. As is now well-known the Tokyo fliers took off from the Carrier Hornet and the mission was rehearsed for months in advance by a group of picked men. With Major Cole on his Athens visit were his wife and their three-months-old daughter, Cindy Lee, and his sister, Martha E. Cole, '30, a Dayton teacher. Mrs. Cole, a Texan, is a graduate of the Texas School of Mines.

"By a clipping which traveled to T. Morgan Baehler, '37 [now back in the States], to President Giffin of Giffin College in Van Wert, to me at Pearl Harbor, I have learned that we have a new president at Ohio University." Thus writes Lieut. Lowell H. Hattery, '36, of Administrative Command, Minecraft, Pacific Fleet. Like many another Ohioan he does not like to have his contacts with the campus broken or delayed. Reports are on record in the Alumni Office, however, of Ohio University news which has reached its intended destination by even more circuitous routes than that traveled by Lieutenant Hattery's news clipping.

Sgt. Morris M. Reznick, '45x, University Heights, was twice wounded in Pacific actions. The first mishap—head wounds—occurred on Leyte. His second injuries were the result of mortar fire on Okinawa and occurred on his birthday, April 11, 1945. After discharge Sergeant Reznick expects to return to Ohio University.

The first flight of Thunderbolt fighter planes to run aerial interference for the besieged 101st Airborne at Bastogne during the German offensive last December was led by First Lieut. Herbert W. Sickling, '44x, Cleveland Heights.

of March 3, 1897.

ANNUAL DUES for membership in the Ohio University Alumni Association are $2.50, of which $1.50 is for a year's subscription to The Ohio Alumnus. Memberships are renewable on October first of each year.

DISCONTINUANCE—If any subscriber wishes his Alumnus discontinued at the expiration of his subscription, notice to that effect should be sent with the subscription, or at its expiration. Otherwise it is understood that a continuance is desired.

REMITTANCE should be made by check or money order, payable to the order of the Ohio University Alumni Association, and mailed to the Association, Box 283, Athens, Ohio.

On and About the Campus . . .

HEREWITH IS pictured Ohio University's Board of Trustees. The picture was taken at the time of the annual meeting last spring, a session which was attended by all of the members of the governing body but Israel M. Foster, '95, Washington, D. C., who was prevented by illness.

Officers elected for the current year were John W. Galbreath, Columbus, chairman of the board; I. M. Foster, honorary vice-chairman; Rhys D. Evans, Akron, vice-chairman and chairman of the executive committee; and George C. Parks, secretary. The secretary is not a member of the board.

Earl C. Shively, Columbus, was reappointed to the board in June by Governor Lausche for a seven-year term. Mr. Shively was vice-chairman of the board in 1943-44 and chairman in 1944-45. He is attorney for the Ohio Railroad Association and a former first assistant attorney-general of Ohio.

With the exceptions of President Baker, Mr. Davis, and Mr. Hopkins all of the foregoing are alumni of Ohio University.

AS OF OCTOBER 3, the student enrollment at Ohio University for the 1945-46 fall semester was 1,957. A break down of the figures discloses that of the total 1,463 are women and 494 are men. Of the 185 war veterans, 183 are men and 2 are women (a WAC and a WAVE). Forty-four of the male veterans are married. Each of the former service women is the wife of a student-veteran. With more than ordinary leeway being given to service people in the way of late entrances it is quite probable that a total of 2,000 students will be registered before the final date is fixed.

The enrollment of co-eds surpasses

slightly the previous all-time high, 1,457, established in 1940-41. The enrollment of men reached a record low for modern times, last year when only 213 were present and accounted for.

LIEUT. CARL H. DENBOW, on leave from his position as associate professor of mathematics, is attached to the Anti-Submarine Warfare Unit of the Atlantic Fleet's Minecraft Training Center at Little Creek, Va. . . . "Back from the wars" after leaves granted for military service are (Lieut.) Edward A. Taylor, professor of sociology; (Major) Ernest E. Ray, '24, professor of accounting; and (Capt.) Thomas Larwick, assistant professor of architectural design and university architect. Returning soon to resume his duties as professor of hygiene and director of the University Health Service is (Comdr.) E. H. Hudson . . .

Carl Nessley, assistant professor of physical welfare, will soon receive a doctorate from New York University. Last winter Mr. Nessley was one of the leaders in a group of civic-minded Athenians who launched a successful campaign to establish an Athens Youth Center. The center provides wholesome and supervised entertainment and recreational activities, and is located at 33 West State Street in the three-story, brick home once occupied by Phrenocon, forerunner to Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, and in more recent days by the Wesley Co-op group.

AN ATTRACTIVELY-designed booklet containing information of interest to war veterans who expect to return to Ohio University or who may be giving consideration to a program of university training upon their release from military service has been prepared. The booklet may be obtained by addressing a request to the Co-ordinator of Veteran's Affairs, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. Alumni knowing servicemen who may be interested in the booklet should secure copies of it for them or suggest to the men that they write directly to the co-ordinator.

This is another necessary—and embarrassing—explanation. Copy for the "May" issue of THE OHIO ALUMNUS which you are now reading went to the printer on October 4. Just when it will reach your hands is a matter for the gods and a harassed printer to decide. Work on the June issue, last on the 1944-45 schedule, is under way. Like its two immediate predecessors the June number will be a "thin" one. Readers are reminded, however, that an extra number of full size was published a year ago last month which offsets the recent page reductions and gives them an average number of pages per issue. The October issue, first of the new 1945-46 publication schedule, will be produced at the earliest possible date and see a return to the normal amount of news material.—The Editor.

OHIO UNIVERSITY was one of the five state universities in which the State Department of Education trained teachers in health education for a 12-day period—Aug. 13 to Aug. 25—this summer. Students taking this course received room, board, and tuition free of charge. Approximately 250 schools throughout the state asked for the privilege of enrolling teachers in the five universities. To be qualified to teach the course in a public school, a teacher must have a major or minor in physical education and health.

Bobcats Lose Season's Opener

Potentially Strong Team Sure To Develop With Experience

OF THE 75 MEN who reported for the Bobcat football squad on September 10—first squad since 1942—all but 9 were freshmen, and only Guard Joe Cardi had ever worn an Ohio uniform before. Several of the boys are 17-year-olds and many have just turned 18. Some of them are expecting service calls at any time. Lou Venditti, a fullback, and John Kern, a tackle, both former Bobcats, joined the squad a few days before the opening game.

In the temporary absence of Don C. Peden, director of athletics and head football coach, the ambitious but inexperienced youngsters were put through their early training and practice paces by Line Coach W. J. "Bill" Trautwein, acting as head coach, and Harold E. Wise, '28, assistant coach, who tutored the backs. Bob Wren, '43, Toledo AA baseball player and coach at Maumee High School for two years, took charge of the "B" squad.

Coach Peden, who went to Italy in June to serve as a civilian in the Army Traveling Sports Clinic, returned to the campus on September 27 and is now in full charge of operations on the gridiron front.

Denied the advantage of a spring training season and with only approximately two weeks of fall training, the Bobcat grididers were called upon to open the season against a strong Bowling Green State University team, Navy-fortified and playing its fifth game this fall, at Ohio Stadium on September 29.

From a vantage point in the press box, having returned only two days previously, Peden watched his colleagues, Trautwein and Wise, send 31 players against Bowling Green's "Falcons" in an effort to cop the season's lid-lifter. The Bobcats were not quite the equals of the visitors, however, who, paced by Fullback Mulvihill, a Navy man, won by a single touch-down, 6-0.

The defensive play of the Ohioans was much superior to their offensive efforts. Rated as underdogs from the start, the Bobcat showing was far from disappointing, and Peden had nothing but praise for his coaching associates and their charges. The next few weeks will see an improvement in team play and fundamentals that will cause headaches in many opposing camps.

Miracles are not expected, but, as Ohio fans know, the Peden-Traut-

Lieut. Chester F. Adams, U.S.A.

Memories of the prowess of such gridiron "greats" as Lieut. Chester F. Adams, '39 [above], Cleveland, live on at Ohio U. to inspire the raw recruits who come each year to fill the gaps left in Bobcat ranks by departing veterans.

"Chet", a tackle, was an outstanding player with the Cleveland Rams and the Green Bay Packers, professional teams, after leaving the campus.

Lieutenant Adams received a commission in the Military Police Corps early this year. His wife is the former Virginia Becker, '40. The picture was taken at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

wein combine has never experienced a losing season and they can be counted upon to do their utmost to protect the record. Besides, they have a squad of boys eager to play—and to play to win. As Prof. Clinton

"Mac" Mackinnon says with characteristic understatement, "The combination isn't bad."

Saturday, October 13, will be the 1945 HOMECOMING DAY. The Bobcat-Bearcat encounter will be the feature of the homecoming occasion and it is expected to bring football-hungry Ohioans from near and far. Assurance, however, is given to men and women not yet released from war service and therefore not free to come back to the campus this year that in 1946 they may look forward to the biggest, most "all-outest" homecoming celebration ever staged at Ohio University.

All games played at Ohio Stadium will begin at 2 P.M., Eastern Standard Time. Reserved seats are $1.50 each and may be secured by sending cash with order to the Ticket Office, Ohio University Athletic Department, Athens, Ohio.

The remainder of the 1945 schedule: Oct. 6, Western Michigan at Athens; Oct. 13, Cincinnati at Athens; Oct. 20, Miami at Oxford; Oct. 27, Fletcher General Hospital at Cambridge; Nov. 3, Murray Teachers at Athens; Nov. 10, Baldwin-Wallace at Berea; and Nov. 17, West Virginia at Morgantown.

OF THE 182 OHIOANS who have given their lives in service to their country, fourteen were Varsity "O" men. These former Bobcats, with the places of their deaths indicated in parentheses, are: Lieut. (j.g.) George G. Collins, '33 (Georgia); Second Lieut. Anthony Cramer, Jr., '4x (Philippines); Ens. Stephen J. Czarnecki, '40 (Pacific); Sgt. Theodore B. Duffy, '4x (Burma); Col. Frank Goettge, '20x (Guadalcanal); Pfc. Paul Gordon, '4x (Europe); Ens. Arend Grothause, '39 (Pacific); Capt. Robert C. Hess, Jr., '4x (Europe).

First Lieut. Robert Krohmer, '42 (Philippines); A/C William C. Major, '44x (Tennessee); Pvt. Peter Merich, Jr., '4x (Nevada); Second Lieut. John P. Robbins, '41x (Georgia); Ens. Andrew T. Szalay, '42 (Pacific); Pfc. Vernon E. Thomas, '46x (Germany).

The College of Education At Ohio University

FOUNDED IN 1902 to "provide—training for all students desiring to prepare themselves for the work of teaching." (Seese Law, March 12, 1902) The first professional courses for teachers in Ohio University were given in 1837.

PRESENTS stimulating offerings in all sessions in preparation for teaching in kindergarten and elementary schools, high schools and colleges, and for positions in school administration, supervision, including supervision of student teachers, guidance and counseling.

STRESSES the preparation of teachers of special subjects—Art, Music, Commerce, Industrial Arts, Health and Physical Education, Home Economics, Speech, and Journalism. Offerings in Library Administration for Schools are available for the school librarian.

MAINTAINS superior facilities for observation and student teaching. All supervising critics have at least the master's degree and successful experience in teaching and teacher-preparation.

SUGGESTS that teaching is an enjoyable occupation. Teachers are in demand. Curricula of the College of Education require both liberal and professional education. High quality students are encouraged to enter the teaching profession. Children and youth need the help of the best brains of the state and country.
